Analysis of "What Is a Nation" by Ernest Renan | Soapboxie Analysis of "What Is a Nation" by Ernest Renan. He means that a nation is an aggregate of people, unified by joy, grief, national sacrifices, triumphs and travails in the past. Renan's statement is true because large scale events that affected a particular people are an impetus for people to bond and advance together as an entity. Ernest Renan - What is a nation? A nation is therefore a large-scale solidarity, constituted by the feeling of the sacrifices that one has made in the past and of those that one is prepared to make in the future. It presupposes a past ; it is summarized, however, in the present by a tangible fact, namely, consent, the clearly expressed desire to continue a common life.
